Message from Elba City Hall:

No citizen should currently be in possession of used City of Elba fire hydrants

Elba City Hall reported earlier this week that employees had field numerous telephone calls from citizens wanting the old fire hydrants being replaced around the city; however, the city is not getting rid of any fire hydrants currently.

Once the project is completed, there is a possibility that citizens would be offered an opportunity to purchase the used fire hydrants. However, no citizen should be in possession of a City of Elba fire hydrant at this time.

If a citizen has a fire hydrant, he/she is asked to return it immediately. Someone found to be in unauthorized possession of a City of Elba fire hydrant will be subject to the appropriate criminal prosecution in the Elba Municipal Court.

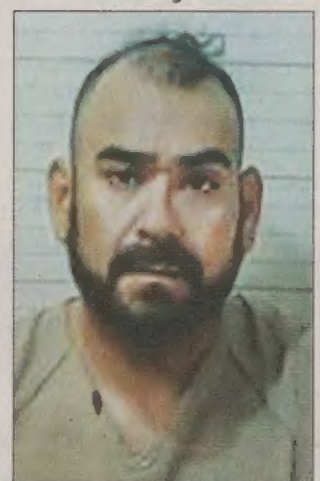

For questions/concerns, call Sally Bane, city clerk, at (334) 897-2333.

Alabama adds to First Class Pre-K classrooms

Governor Kay Ivey and the Alabama Department of Early Childhood Education announced this week the nationally recognized, high-quality Alabama First Class Pre-K program will add 135 new classrooms in 41 counties this fall.

This is the first round of new classroom funding that will be released by the Alabama Department of Early Childhood Education. Additional classrooms will be funded based on further evaluation of high-needs areas prior to the commencement of the 2021-2022 school year.

In Coffee County, three private child care center and one private child care school were added in this round of funding. The join 12 other previously established Pre-K classrooms at Governor announces COVID-19 vaccination eligibility expanded to those age 12 and older Governor Kay Ivey on Thursday announced Alabama is expanding COVID-19 vaccination eligibility to include individuals age 12 and older, effective immediately. On Monday, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) authorized the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine for emergency use in adolescents with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices giving recommendations Wednesday and the CDC giving its final approval later yesterday.

"This is great and welcome news that the Pfizer-

New classrooms will expand access to the state funded, voluntary pre-kindergarten program to 24,714 children in the 2021-2022 school year, with more than 1,373 classrooms statewide, moving closer to Alabama's goal of serving 70 percent of eligible four-year-old children.

"Alabama's First Class Pre-K has been recognized as a national model for delivering high-quality early childhood education and gives our youngest citizens a strong start to their educational journey," Governor Ivey said.

"The vaccine is our ticket back to normal, and I continue to feel optimistic and hopeful in the positive direction we are moving in as a state."

The Pfizer vaccine is available to individuals age 12 and up, and the Moderna

The Alabama Legislature approved Governor Ivey's recommended budget increase for the Alabama Department of Early Childhood Education, which includes $151 million for the Office of School Readiness that administers First Class Pre-K. In addition to funding new classrooms throughout the state, the Alabama Department of Early Childhood Education will continue to ensure pay parity for all First Class Pre-K teachers with the same 2% pay raise as K-12 public school teachers in the upcoming school year.

"We are excited to add 135 new classrooms to our First Class Pre-K program in the coming year," said Dr. Barbara Cooper, Secretary of the Alabama Department of Early Childhood Education. "In conversations with leaders across the state, it is apparent that the benefits of high-quality pre-k are well understood. Thank you to the organizations within the early learning mixed delivery system who have stepped up to partner with us to provide this valuable opportunity in all 67 counties," said Secretary Cooper.

"The most wasted of all days is one without laughter."
— E. E. Cummings

A follow up on our actor Johnny Crawford's comments of May 6 including his visit to Elba and his recent death. Becky Morrow reminded us that her late husband, Donnie, was behind the Crawford visit. Donnie was working at Ft. Rucker and in charge of filming training films. Crawford was in the Army and was at Rucker for some filming. Crawford commented that he had never attended a high school football game and Donnie latched on to him and invited him to Elba, AL, a visit and experience as we noted, he really enjoyed.

Update on the gambling bill in the Alabama legislature. A couple of weeks ago we predicted time was running out on passage of any such bill and in fact went so far as to predict the lottery bill(s) were dead for this session. Some politicians had been assuring their pro-lottery bill supporters that "all was well" with passing the bill this session but others were quietly shaking their head otherwise. Well Monday came and went, the legislative session is over and . . . no lottery bill on the Governor's desk. The issue was not even debated on this last day of the legislative session. Governor Ivey said Monday that she would not call a special session for the lottery issue unless lawmakers could settle their differences on the matter in advance.

Another emotionally sensitive bill that died this legislative session had to do with transgender children. It was designed to prevent medically tinkering with the bodies and/or brains of children with transgender traits — or something like that. We have mixed feelings on this idea. First, we are not qualified to make any decisions in this area of health care, one way or the other and have compassion with those who may be facing such decisions. However, we wonder just who can say they are so sure of things that they are willing to take actions that will permanently alter a child's body forever and ever? That leads us to lean to a decision to wait until the child is an adult and is absolutely sure this very permanent type medication or surgery is what they want for their body.

We have little patience with people who don't want the COVID shots. Of course, some have medical reasons that prevent them from safely taking the vaccine, others have swallowed the erroneous social media hype of how dangerous the vaccine is to individuals. Others share our dislike for shots and are using various excuses (we personally got the shots anyway ASAP and had no problems). Each of our readers is urged to suck it up and GET THE SHOT(S)!!! Your life may depend on it.

Taking a casual walk around the levee Sunday afternoon, we noted that it was past time for a mowing job. Elba's levee looks s-o-o-o-o good when it is freshly mowed! Then when we got to the area that was once lighted for evening walkers, a lightbulb went off in our slow brain. Around each of the old concrete bases of the former lights, there was a neatly trimmed circle. Clearly someone had just days earlier been there with a weed eater getting it all ready for the specialty mowers to trim the slopes of the levee. Sure am glad we saw that bit of progress before gripping to city hall!

Editor's Note: Cuzin Lou Lou's tales are to be enjoyed as a light-hearted form of Southern expression

Sister got a break from Cuzin Lou Lou last Saturday as she headed out on a day-trip adventure with two longtime friends!

Precious P and Awesome A have been a part of Lou Lou's life ever since she was a shy teenager. They often joke that the shy teenager got completely lost somewhere along the way as Lou Lou is now the one that no one ever knows what is going to come out of her mouth at any given moment.

When these three get together, it is a ton of laughs. Those gut wrenching laughs where you can't breathe and just plain hurt from it. The good stuff!!

Well, last Saturday's adventure did not disappoint. Lou Lou had sent out an SOS recently that she "needed" a friends adventure, and the two came running to deliver!

The funniest thing from the entire day came on the drive home. Lou Lou was doing the driving as they were traveling on Precious P's new ride. In the front passenger seat, Precious P takes notice to 'something' in the back glass of the vehicle in front of them.

She apparently had been studying it for a while before she decided to ask Lou Lou, "What is that in the back window of that vehicle?"

Precious P was convinced it was "something scary" like a clown face!

Lou Lou was keeping a safe distance between the two vehicles, and she had to admit to Precious P that she did not know what it was — just could not tell. The two were concentrating intently on the window [add in that Lou Lou was also concentrating on driving] when suddenly Awesome A leaps forward from the backseat and pulls a "boo" tap on Precious P!

Precious P is famous for her high-pitched shrieks when something scares her...she did not disappoint this time! In fact, she jumped and hollered enough that it also scared Lou Lou and she jerked the steering wheel briefly [not dangerously, but enough to add to the laughter of the moment].

Lou Lou had to admit that Awesome A pulled a good one there because it is not easy to startle Cuzin Lou Lou.

Several gut-wrenching moments later, after laughing so hard they could not breathe, Lou Lou finally got close enough to the vehicle at a stop sign for the three friends to realize the "thing" in the window was a logo for a limo company — the van was one of the company's limo vehicles!

That innocent company logo was the culprit in Precious P's overactive imagination, but it was well worth the whole thing to bring about such an eruption of laughter! Lou Lou is one blessed girl when it comes to friendships!

Until next time...God Bless and Keep Smiling!

Why you need to use a vault when you bury an urn at a cemetery

Many people may wonder why you need a vault to bury an urn at a cemetery. Typically, when someone is buried in a casket the casket is placed in a vault. The vault is a large concrete or metal box that holds the casket. It helps keep the ground of the cemetery level and also protects the casket. When a loved one is cremated, however, their ashes will be placed in an urn. However, many families still wish to bury the urn in a cemetery so they have a place to go to remember their loved one.

It may seem, since the ashes are already stored in a container, that a vault would not be necessary. But this is not the case. Most cemeteries will require that if you bury an urn you place it inside a vault as well.

First, the vault serves the same purpose for the urn as it does for a casket. The vault helps keep the grounds of the cemetery level. The vault also protects the urn. Many urns are made from stone materials or porcelain and could potentially break if the ground shifts too much.

Another reason urns need to be in a vault is in the event that a family wishes to disinter the urn. At some point in the future, a family may decide they would like to move the urn to another location for burial. If this happens, it can be hard to dig up just a single urn. There is a good chance that an unprotected urn would break during the disinterment process. A vault is not only easier to locate in the ground but safer to dig up.

If you do not wish to have your loved one buried in a vault you can always choose to scatter their ashes. Some cemeteries have special spots where you can scatter ashes. This way you would still have a location to go to remember your loved one. Or you can choose another, meaningful location to scatter your loved one's ashes. Just make sure to check for local laws and restrictions before you do so.

The school year is quickly winding down and our grandson Lawson has plans to spend as much time as possible in the water once his summer vacation arrives. He has loved swimming and playing in the water since he was a toddler, and I'm sure he and his Mom already have a couple of trips to the beach on their calendar. The sun and the water are definitely on his menu for summer fun.

For what it is worth....

 There is now a new 'Fab 5' in the world of sports and they reside right here in Elba, Alabama! The five young men that wrote their names in the history book for state champions at Elba High are John Martin Wilson, Peyton McCart, Collin Sauls, Paxton Wise and Carson Wise, as they brought home the 1A-2A state title in golf and overcame a soggy course and the role of underdog to claim the big blue map that is so coveted all across the state. All five played football and baseball this season, and shared time on the baseball field and the golf course to excel at both sports, while John Martin Wilson played every male sport offered at the school and won the individual state championship with an amazing round of two-under par 70. Coach Mark Wicker, the golf coach since 2015, only got his entire team together one day a week, at best, but he and his team never backed away from finding time to practice whenever possible, and it was that dedication and determination that built the solid foundation that helped the team achieve its goal. Four of the five state champion golfers are only juniors, and it will be interesting to see if they can help bring home more state titles before they graduate. I wouldn't bet against them!

 The Elba Tigers competed in a four-team spring football jamboree last week up at Luverne, and even though Coach Sieving seemed a little disappointed after the game, the coaches and players now know a little more about what it is going to take to be a 2A contender next season and should be chomping at the bits to get back to work in the summer. A couple of injuries and the absence of four starters that were busy winning a state golf championship held the team back during most of spring drills, and it showed at the game as some younger players were forced to start and some returning starters were forced to play unfamiliar positions. Spring football games are more about giving the players something to look forward to on those hot and steamy afternoons during practice, and to let the coaches get all the players on video for evaluation. From that standpoint the game was a success.

 The state high school softball and baseball playoffs continued last week with the Brantley Lady Bulldogs moving on in their quest for yet another state championship. The Lady Bulldogs were easily the best team in Class 1A at the South Region, and while they were pushed in a 4-2 win in the final game, they were the cream of the crop and will be heavy favorites this week at the state tournament. Kinston saw its goal of a return trip to the state tournament fall short as the Lady Bulldogs posted only one win in three games, while New Brockton won two games and placed fourth in its first visit to a region event as a 3A team. Over in baseball, Brantley was knocked off at home by new private school power Bayshore Christian in the semifinals and saw its state title hopes come to an abrupt and disappointing end. The season is over for almost all the teams in the area, but it was a fun ride.

 In closing.... You know that softball is now a major sport in the state when you and the wife go out to eat on a Saturday night and every TV in the restaurant has on the Alabama-Florida softball game from the SEC tournament. I am a Crimson Tide fan and enjoyed the game almost as much as the meal, as did many other patrons that actually cheered a few times. I guess if you are a true college sports fan the actual sport being played makes little difference. I guess it helps when you live in the south, and especially if you yell "Roll Tide."

Dedication and determination were key to Tigers run to state prep golf championship

The Elba Tiger golf team added the newest chapter to the 'Book of Champions' at Elba High last week when it claimed the state championship in the Class 1A-2A state tournament, at Magnolia Grove Golf Course, in Mobile.

The Tigers fired an 18-hole total of 313 to win the event, while Brantley placed second with a 320 and North Sand Mountain finished third with a 332.

"We hoped we would qualify for the state tournament and knew we had posted some scores during the regular season and in the post-season that could contend," said Elba Tiger golf coach Mark Wicker. "We thought we had a chance last year to be successful at the state tourney, but of course it got wiped out by the pandemic. We had shot 309 and 310 in matches this season, which were solid rounds, and we felt if we could match that we had a chance."

The Tigers didn't quite match that score on the rain-drenched Mobile course, but saw its players step up and come through with memorable rounds. John Martin Wilson, the only senior on the team, birdied two par fours and two par fives on the back nine to fire a four-under par 32, and while three bogeys did pop up on the front side, he added a fifth birdie of the day to close out the remarkable round that gave him medalist honors.

Collins Sauls fired a three-over 39 on the first nine to set the stage for a solid round of 81, while Peyton McCart fired a 39 on his second nine and parred six of the last seven holes to finish with a round of 80, and Paxton Wise parred five of the last six holes on the back nine to post an 82.

"Everyone on the team really stepped up," said Wicker, "as John Martin Wilson posted his best round of the season, Collin Sauls and Peyton McCart came through with solid rounds, and Paxton Wise stepped up as our fifth golfer to put a score on the board. Carson Wise also played well and helped the team gain confidence, but didn't post a score on the board."

"We had two practice rounds on the course and put together a plan that we felt would give us the best chance to post a low score," added Coach Wicker. "We knew placement off the tees was vital, and that the course would penalize poor tee shots and risk takers, and we put together a plan to play it safe, keep the ball in play, and make shots when we got the opportunity. The team bought in to the plan, helped each other and brought home the title."

"We were confident after we won the sectional," stated Wicker, "but were disappointed when we placed second at sub-state. That sub-state finish reminded me of the 2015 football season when we lost to Opp in the final regular season game and then went on a run and won the state championship, and I reminded the team that despite the second place finish the ultimate goal was still within reach. The team all believed it could win a state championship, and through a total team effort went out and accomplished that feat."

"I think one fact that is sometimes overlooked is that all five of the members of the team also played football and baseball," added Wicker. "During baseball season we only got together as a team one day a week, and usually played a match on that day.

So, we really didn't get to work together as much as we all would have liked. The guys did hit balls late in the afternoons and got on the course at Elba Country Club whenever they could, but were also committed to baseball and closed the season with four straight wins at the same time the golf season was heading to the post-season. These five Elba High student-athletes achieved something that most just dream of, and I assure you it made all the rides in my blue truck during the season just another part of the story."

At spring jamboree

Coach Sieving pleased with Tigers effort

The Elba Tigers wrapped up spring football drills on Friday night with a spring jamboree that included Luverne, Greenville and Jackson, and while the scoreboard was turned on, it meant little to anyone but the fans as the Tigers got the chance to play almost everyone in uniform and got the players on video for evaluation prior to upcoming summer workouts.

"We didn't play as well as we had hoped," said Tiger head coach Marc Sieving, "but we did figure out a few things and will take a long look at the video and try to finalize some things before we get back to work."

"On offense we lost our quarterback a couple of days before the game and had to make some last minute changes that didn't turn out too well," admitted Coach Sieving. "Four of the members of the state champion golf team are all two-way starters and missed spring practice, which didn't help, but we were happy to exchange some work in the spring for that state championship trophy. We did some good things and had a young running back that showed promise, but made lots of mistakes up front due to inexperience and turned the ball over. Over on defense we did a lot of new things and after just two weeks of practice got out of position a couple of times, but did make some big plays. The biggest positive was effort given by every player that took the field. They all played hard and played to win on every play, and were disappointed after the game."

"It was good to get the younger players on the field after the varsity game," said Sieving, "and we are all excited about that group. They have already made a lot of improvement in the weight room and feel like we have some players in that group that have the chance to help on the varsity level. They are young, but know how to win and know what it takes to be winners."

"We will now give the players some time off and come back to work on June 15," added Sieving. "When we get back we will work hard four days a week for the rest of the summer. The state allows players to wear shorts and helmets, and we will do that and work hard. We have one seven-on-seven camp on the schedule, and while seven-on-seven isn't really football, it helps the defense and gives the players something to look forward to. We are definitely looking for this senior class to become leaders on and off the field during the off-season, and to be there for the younger players."

The Tigers will compete again next season in Class 2A, Area 3, in all sports.

Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my redeemer. Ps. 19:14

EDIFICATION

Edification — the instruction or improvement of a person morally or intellectually.

David wanted his words and the thoughts of his heart to be acceptable to the Lord. When a worshiper brought an animal to the sanctuary to be sacrificed to the Lord, a priest would examine it to see if it was free of blemishes. If a blemish was found, neither the animal nor the worshiper was accepted by the Lord.

Matt. 12:34b, "for out to the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." The creation demonstrates the power and the abilities that words exercise in the formation of our worlds. I think about how much further down the road I would be, if I had known in my formative years the power of my words.

David unveils a secret in Ps. 19:14 that will enable us to speak only those things that are pleasing in God's sight. The secret is to pray that the thoughts that we ponder in our hearts are aligned with the scriptures. We must also seek to have the proper attitude toward what the scripture says. It is possible to ponder scriptures in our heart and not have the right attitude or mindset toward the scripture. If our attitudes resist the scriptures, nothing is accomplished.

All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works. 2 Tim. 3:16-17

When we spend time with God and his word, are hearts are programmed to His truths. These truths become our foundational truths from which our thoughts are centered. If no time is spent with God and his word, our hearts will be filled with our opinions. We will meditate on our opinion and our opinion will become our gospel.

This gives Satan an advantage over us. He knows the power of words. He also knows the power of what's in our heart. He knows that out of the heart flows the issues of life. If our heart is filled with our opinions, he knows that is what we will speak. We will entertain fear, doubt, anxiety and unrest. When we speak our opinions, he's waiting to come into agreement with what we say and proceed to giving us the fruit of our words. Thou are snared with the words of our mouth.

The scriptures are used for us to profit, not only in a natural sense, but especially in a spiritual sense. The scriptures reprove us for correction and instructs us in righteousness that we can be perfect, or become mature, and thoroughly furnished unto every good work.

The word of God is a two-edged sword. Not only does it serve as a weapon against the enemies, but it is quick and powerful, and it cuts away anything within our souls that blocks us from receiving the truth. The word of God quashes our truths and leads us to understanding the truth of God.

God does not want us to walk in ignorance. He wants us to be informed in every area of our lives. For every need and for every situation we face, the scriptures have an answer. It is our duty to program our hearts with the word of God so that the Holy Spirit can bring to our mind what to say in the times of need.

Our words come from our meditation. We can speak our victories, or we can speak our defeat. I want what I speak and what I meditate upon to be acceptable and pleasing in his sight. For he is our strength and our redeemer.

"Good Sermon Today, Preacher!"

I suspect it's the same in most homes: parents frequently tell their children to clean up their rooms, but the kids keep dragging their feet. The parents' approach may vary from gentle reminders to exasperated verbal assault such as "your room looks like a pigpen!"

Parents have been known to bribe with an increase in monetary allowance and/or punish by withholding privileges or imposing timeouts and groundings. Without thinking about it, Dad and Mom might be guilty of the same behavior they dislike in their offspring. The parents hear the minister speaking of God's standards and think, yes, that's something I should pay attention to someday. They may compliment the minister, saying, "Good sermon today, preacher!" That's like their child responding to "clean up your room" with, "Good idea, Mom. I'll get around to it."

Even after Judah's "time-out" in Babylon, it took a while for God to get the people to "clean their room." Finally, under Ezra's dedicated leadership, they responded with a positive yes to God's instructions. In what situation are you putting off doing what God wants? — C.R.B.
